Two persons drown at Moore's Falls

Two persons drowned at Moore's Falls on Saturday. Dead are Janet Georgina Medcalfe age 34 of 140 Carelton Ave in Toronto and Norma Catherine Lucas age 40 of 2255 University Avenue in Windsor. The drowning occurred at 3:45 in the afternoon.

5 persons were in a 14' boat powered by a 40 HP motor. Owner: Voldemar Parg, 11 Kingswell Ave., Scarborough. The boat became caught in the fast current by the Moores Falls dam, and struck the stop logs, overturning. Lucas became trapped under the boat against the face of the dam and the four others got to safety. Medcalfe jumped back into the water to try and save Lucas, and she also became trapped against the face of the dam and drowned. Both drowned persons were nurses.

We understand that no warning signs are posted to say that open dam ahead and no protection boom in the water.

PC's Bar-B-Q a huge success

Over 500 Tories faithfully crowded the Kinmount Fair Exhibition Hall last Saturday night to attend the annual Beef Bar-B-Q. The P.C. Association Executive had to rally their forces just to make sure that everyone got fed. The overflow crowd were treated the usual succulent Bar-B-Q Beef served up by the Monmouth Fire Department Chef Gary Agnew, and his able assistant Jim Deterling. In charge of the whole evening was vice president Shirley Brandon, who did a marvelous job of getting everyone looked after. Our Federal M.P. Bill Scott was his usual cheerful self, keeping everything running smoothly in his favourite fair grounds.

The P.C. incumbent for the Victoria Haliburton Riding, Glen Hodgson stepped up to the microphone in fighting style and announced his intention to seek the nomination for his fourth term. He ably defended the Conservative Government's record service the past four years and challenged all his supporters to become actively involved in the campaign ahead.

Students from the Lindsay

Kinsmen "Big Band Express" provided the music for the dancing afterwards and a great time was had by all.

Three persons injured in collision on Hwy 35 south of Minden

A collision occurred on Saturday, August 16th, 1975 when a car driven by Bruce V. Webb of 21 Kendale Crt in Hamilton was travelling southbound on Highway 35 (south of Minden) at 1:30 a.m.

The vehicle struck a rock on the west side of the road.

The driver of the car Bruce Webb had to be taken to the Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay suffering from serious internal injury.

Two passengers in the car at the time of the accident

James H. Lewis age 26 of 1460 Garth St. in Hamilton and Deborah A. Smith age 27 of 244 Patricia Ave in Willowdale were both taken to the Red Cross Hospital in Minden where they were treated for cuts and bruises.

After the collision occurred passenger Lewis claimed to be the driver and it was later determined that this was not so that Webb was the driver. Lewis is charged with Public Mischief contrary to the Criminal Code as a result of this.

After the collision all 3 persons involved were quite shaken up and Webb was having sessions of unconsciousness. On one of these Webb stopped breathing. Kenneth Fieldhouse, Campbellford, age 33 employed at Warkworth Penitentiary gave Webb mouth to mouth resuscitation and revived Webb.

Damage to the car was estimated at $600. and Constable J.C. Martin of the Minden Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police investigated the accident.

I read with interest the advice
Supplied by Mr. Smiley.
If understood, one must conclude
That guy is very wily,

That is in matters amorous
Performed in a canoe.
His don'ts reflect, and most direct,
The things a guy can do.

Experience man! That's what counts,
Just how to gerrymander,
How to con, and turn her on,
Yet spike the lady's dander.

This can't be learned canoodling
With maiden aunt or granny,
And this despite an appetite
Egregious as a nanny.

No sir, No Sir, this reflects
A knowledgable past,
Real humdinger, racey swinger,
A man 'bout town, and fast.

I tried it once; Oh not with granny!
In one of my philanders.
I got on nice without advice
From Smiley or Ann Landers,

Till some speed fiend crazed hit the wave
Disasterous occasion!
I went somewhere into the air
A most abstract location.

Then I came down mid's't circumstance
And not of my intention
For nose dived how I arrived
Embarrassing to mention.

And tho results were negative,
I feel inclined to state
All Smiley's guile
Could not bewile
The whimsicals of fate.

Haliburton News Letter

The Rev. Norman D. Martin who is a parish priest of the Parish of Perrytown and professor of biology at Richmond College was the guest speaker at the Full Gospel Businessmen's International held at Kosy Korner last Saturday evening. Ten years ago the Lord blessed him with the Baptism of the Holy Spirit, and since then his parish ministry has been openly charismatic with many blessings from God.

Bruce Gould of Birch Point Lodge at Haliburton told us the other day that the fish are really biting in Lake Kashagawigamog and he can't recall in all of his years in the tourist business of seeing so many fish coming out of this lake.

We were certainly pleased to see that the second annual Canadian Blues and Jazz Festival held at the Community Centre in Minden on Saturday, August 9th was a great success. A crowd of nearly 1000 people wended their way into the centre to hear the best in Jazz. A lot of work and effort went into promoting this event and the Rotary Club of Minden who sponsored it are to be commended for their efforts.

May we remind you that it's Bingo every Creating things from those plastic coated milk cartons that might otherwise find their way to the garbage is limited only by your imagination. It's fun for children and adults. Ideal for groups -- like making centerpieces for a club supper; inexpensive items for a fund-raising project; school or Scout or Sunday school projects for Mother's day, Christmas or Easter.

As of August the 19th the Haliburton Red & White have announced that they will be discontinuing telephone orders, pickup and delivery service.

There will be a Rummage Sale at the Salvation Army in Haliburton this coming Friday, August 22nd from 9 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. It's a one day sale only.

The big news last week was the announcement that we will be having a Provincial election on September 18th. The Liberals and the N.D.P. have their candidates in the field in the Victoria-Haliburton riding and the Progressive Conservative Nominating Convention is coming up.

The final play of the summer presented by the Road Show Theatre from the University of Guelph Drama Department will be presented at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School at Haliburton this coming Monday night, August 25th at 8:30 p.m. The play to be presented is "The Fantastics."

We had quite a rain last Wednesday here in the County but it didn't dampen the spirits of the vacationers who took this opportunity to come to the villages to shop.

Year Round Recreational and Resort Complex

Photos by Dal Hubbert

Work on the Year Round Recreational and Resort Complex at Haliburton is going right ahead on schedule. At the present time construction of the new golf Course is well underway and the directors of One-2-One Corporation told the Echo that the building of the Motor Hotel will commence in September and both the Inn and the golf course are expected to be ready next spring.

The 100 acre project which is located just west of Coneybeare Motors on Highway 121, beside a 7½ acre pond will have a full time salesman on the road in Canada and the United States giving talks and showing films on the new complex to service clubs, womens groups, sports clubs etc.

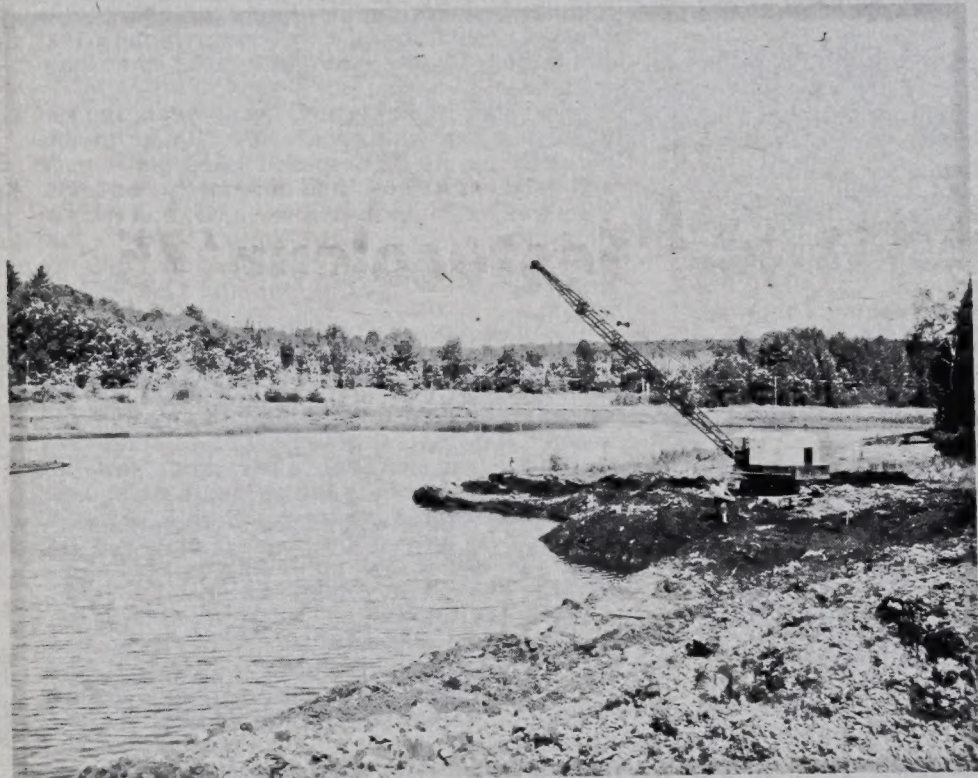

The first phase of the complex which is expected to be completed in the spring of 1976 includes a professional nine-hole golf course, deluxe 36-unit Motor Hotel, convention room, cocktail lounge and a fully licenced dining room which will accommodate from 75 to 100 people. The new complex is totally designed for small business and other conventions.

The second phase which will be built later will see 36 additional motor hotel units added to make a total of 72 and it will then be two storeys high. Another nine holes will be added to the golf course to make it an eighteen hole course. Other additions in the second phase will be a heated pool and a curling rink.

The Directors of One 2 One Corporation are Wren Blair President, Jim Gregory, Vice President, Jack Davison, Oakville, Golf Professional, Glen Blair, Haliburton, Art Ward, Haliburton, secretary and Lee Blair, Haliburton.

Mr. Wren Blair, president of the corporation told the Echo that a few years back this new venture was just a dream but now it is becoming a reality.

We join with everyone in the Highlands of Haliburton in wishing the directors the best of luck with this new project and when completed will make a big boost to our economy.

Esson Lake is polluted

Esson Lake is polluted. Not so bad that the area below the dam foams with suds like the streams in the south, but still --- polluted.

Recent tests of water at the dam show 16 parts per million coliform bacteria. And from Toronto comes the warning, "Don't drink that water." Five years ago it was possible to lean over the side of the fishing boat and scoop up a handful of pure clean water and to slake your thirst without fear. But that was five years ago.

Swimming isn't banned. The fish are still safe to eat. Perhaps this is unfortunate. Pollution is a creeping sickness that slowly fouls a lake. Nobody knows what is happening. Ask the people in the south. At first their lakes stunk only in the late summer. At first the dead fish washed up only a few at a time.

Where does the pollution hurt?

It hurts when you know you are cleaner than the water you are swimming in. It hurts when you try to sell your piece of paradise and find the values have slid on fouled waterfronts. And it hurts the local economy when the fishermen and transients who used the local bait and grocery stores, restaurants and service stations, take their business to cleaner grounds.

And, of course, it hurts when pollution leads to health problems, which it can.

It is avoidable. The wastes in Esson Lake come from people. Directly. Outhouses located 20 feet from the water's edge, inadequate or antiquated septic tanks, both contribute to the fouling of the lake. The same properties that cannot afford holding tanks or an acceptable sewage system sport $2,000 boats, snowmobiles for the whole family, and in some cases central heating in a recreation home. Pollution is, unfortunately, a matter of priorities. Creeping pollution is not noticeable and who can water ski behind a septic tank.

It's Esson Lake not Essen

ESSONVILLE - (Special to The Echo) - The first thing a land developer should develop is his ability to spell. A stretch of the Esson Lake shoreline is up for grabs now, with advertising on the two highway approaches directing prospects to "Essen Lake."

The other chuckle from the same developer is the claim of "lake frontage". Only the locals can appreciate the joke. The land for sale is downstream from the Essonville line and upstream from the dam. The bridge, more accurately described as a culvert, is too low at highwater to permit a boat to pass. At low water periods, the lake bottom is too high to permit a boat through. The only real lake access is by boat trailer -- but since the shoreline is wet, and above the dam, they are technically "lake frontage."

But, damnit, on ESSON lake. Not "Essen". That is in Germany.

Let's have your suggestions

The three annual summer carnivals in the County are now over. We are speaking of the Minden Rotary Carnival, the Legion Carnival and the Haliburton Rotary Carnival.

Although all three of these annual events were a success this year people keep telling us that its the same old thing every year and some changes should be made. We are the first to agree but just what changes are we thinking about.

We are sure that some of our readers have some suggestions and if so why not write to this paper and let us know about them.

Its fine and dandy to say that this should be done or that something else should be brought in but it all takes money. But let us make it clear that the Rotary Clubs and the Legion can't give everything away for nothing. They must make money to meet their commitments.

The only unfortunate part of this entire affair is the fact that many people come in and watch the parades and after they are over drive straight home without leaving the service clubs with a cent of money.

In other words they are free loaders who expect to see a gala extravaganza, but don't want to pay anything toward it. It is after these parades that these service clubs must make their money.

Letters to the editor

Dr. Morton Shulman,
The Legislature,
Queens Park, Toronto
Dear Dr. Shulman:

I read in the newspaper that you would like each M.P.P. and each candidate for the provincial legislature to state if they would seek a pay raise if elected.

For Social Credit candidates the answer is, of course, no.

At a meeting in my riding back in May the new wording of our policy regarding the pay of M.P.P.s and municipal politicians was released in a statement from our provincial leader Sid Hamelin.

We say governments should only be allowed to adjust the salaries of politicians during the last three months before an election. And the raise should not come into effect until the first day that the newly elected members take their seats.

In that way every candidate would know before he agrees to run, what the salary is on the job he is applying for. If, by the time his term ends, inflation has reduced the purchasing value of the salary he can enact an increase for the next people.

Of course, it is a contradiction for a politician to blame any of his own problems on inflation in the first place, since it is government waste and political incompetence that causes inflation to begin with.

Last year, according to a government reply to Federal Social Credit leader Real Caouette as recorded on page 7350 of Hansard, Canadians were in debt to the tune of $27 billion or almost one third of our gross national product, just for mortgage debt.

Government, of course, has jurisdiction over the amount of mortgage money available and the amount we must pay for it in interest. This mortgage debt in 1974 reduced the purchasing value of our dollar to around 64c.

Government took at least 10% from us in income tax reducing the dollar to 54c, 12% in federal sales tax reducing it to 42c, 5% in provincial sales tax reducing it to 37c, then charged us for property tax and licenses on everything but the air we breathe.

So if inflation reduces the value of the politicians pay it is his own fault.

Sincerely yours,
Harry Hughes,
Social Credit
Victoria-Haliburton

Dear Sir:

May we, Mr and Mrs T. Russell, Bramlington England, take this opportunity of expressing our sincere gratitude for the kindness, consideration and friendliness shown to us during our stay in Haliburton Village. We have found you wonderful people.

May I also add my sincere thanks to the boys at the Legion, and to the very good friends I've made there. It makes the thought of returning, to this lovely Village and its inhabitants something to look forward to very much. So once again my wife and I say Thank You,

Thank you all.

Cheerio

Editor
County Echo:

Again the residents of Haliburton, whether permanent or summer, are suffering an injustice in respect of water levels.

The draw down is at an unreal level and those interested should write to Superintendent D.J. Gormley, Trent Canal System, P.O. Box 567, Peterborough, Ontario.

People in this area are entitled to reasonable water levels.

G.C. Springer

The Editor of the Haliburton County Echo:

I've been getting your paper now for some time and for the most part I really enjoy it. However, I find most of your opinions on development via the Editorial Column to be ignorant and irresponsible.

Why are you so intent on spoiling the most beautiful vacation area in Southern Ontario (tied with the Madawaska Valley)? Are you trying to keep up with the City of Muskoka (shopping plazas, factories, townhouses, condominiums, housing subdivisions, apartments, 4-lane highways, bumper to bumper traffic, Kentucky Fried Chicken on every corner, polluted lakes)?

In the May 8th editorial you say government acquisition of land (much needed park land at that) forces land prices up. Wrong! Development increases land prices. Take a look at Muskoka. The government is buying if any, very little land in Muskoka. Land prices and taxes there are much higher than in Haliburton. (It is true that Muskoka's taxes are higher due in part to the localized government. However, that was Muskoka's own doing, and I sincerely hope that Haliburton County does not make the same mistake.)

What about the cottager? Twenty years ago you welcomed him with open arms: "Come to this beautiful county of unspoiled lakes and forests and fabulous fishing and hunting", you said. "Get away from the overcrowded city and relax in the peace and quiet of the North Country". You were glad to have the cottager, after all, he provided most of your income and paid 90% of your taxes.

Now you want to stab the cottager in the back with that very tax money. You want to spoil the country he once loved enough to buy with his hard earned cash. You want to pave, straighten and widen roads that were once scenic, interesting and had character. You want to bring factories and industry to pollute the air and waters. Your council approves plans for unsightly townhouses and highway strip development that makes the vacationer believe he never left the city. Your council allows developers to build back-lot subdivisions right behind lakeshore cottagers who were promised privacy by those same developers when they bought their property years ago. In fact your council will allow almost anything to be built because it brings in more tax money. (It goes without saying why they like tax money so much.) Your council passes ridiculous building by-laws such as a minimum cottage floor space of 600 square feet (Dysart). A great many people would like to have built just a simple cabin on the lake. But, of course, a larger building means more taxes for the county, not to mention increasing the property values in the area. (Are you still blaming the government for this?) And now, in some cottaging areas (not specifically Haliburton), much to my disbelief, some people want to prevent cottagers from occupying positions on the local council.

The final blow to sanity was struck in your August 6th editorial when the Echo suggested that Haliburton Village could use a large apartment building. That would just about bring Haliburton Village up to Bracebridge's ugly standard.

The reason for the Echo's pro Development stand has been quite obvious since the beginning: more people = larger Echo circulation = more money in the pockets of people that do not give a damn. (and there are a lot of potential customers in a large apartment building).

All of the Central Ontario Vacation Area should be preserved as such. Vacation land is for lodges, motels, camps, cottages, fishermen and hunters.

I can not help thinking that a lot of people in Haliburton County feel a slight twinge of guilt as they go about defacing the countryside. After all you keep turning out excellent publications of the 'good old days' (Early Days in Haliburton, Haliburton 100 Years, In Quest of Yesterday, and even the Echo's Pic of the Past), to remind the younger folks that the old way was and still IS best.

Pic of the past

Our pic of the past this week is a photo taken from the book Haliburton and Vicinity that was printed many years ago. The photo is North Main Street, the principal thoroughfare of Haliburton as it looked back in the good old days. Here's what the first paragraph in the book had to say. We quote.

It hardly seems possible that one can step on the train at Toronto and in a few short hours be set down in the midst of such magnificence as is to be found in and around the Village represented in this Booklet of Views. Haliburton, the village whose name lingers in the memory synonymous of all that is beautiful, imposing and inspiring in nature, is centrally located in the county whose name it bears, one hundred and fifty miles from Toronto. Our thanks to John Perry of R.R. 1, Haliburton for submitting this photo.

About our 'little trip'

BILL SMILEY

EVERY mid-summer, for some peculiar reason, my wife and I get into the same conversation. We talk at some length about where we should go for a holiday.

We have this ridiculous, guilty feeling that we should do what normal people do on their vacations: go to a lodge; rent a cottage; buy a tent and go camping; hire a trailer; go for a "trip" somewhere. Anything.

We talk about it for weeks, off and on. We keep referring to "our little trip."

Perhaps we should just jump in the car and go gypsy-ing around the country, we say. It sounds good, nice and careless and fun, with a new adventure just around the next curve.

Or maybe this year we'll do the culture bit: a week at Stratford, take in all the plays, dabble in the Avon, look with the eye of old theatre-goers at the stunned gawping tourists.

Or, for a change, book in at a posh lodge for a week, no meals for the old lady to cook, dress to the hilt for dinner, mingle with the fascinating sub-jetset.

Or this year, for once, we'll rent a cottage for two weeks, dam-the-expense, get away from the telephone, slouch around in bare feet and shorts, and listen to the loons on the lake at night.

Or, for a complete change, maybe we'll go to the city, check into a fancy hotel with a pool, lounge around in an air-conditioned room, and go out to dinner and a good show.

There's only one trouble with all these plans. They require decisive action, and we never seem to get around to either decision or activity.

Take the posh lodge, for example. First, they are all clip joints. Secondly, they are booked for the whole summer. Thirdly, we don't have the wardrobes to dress to the hilt or anywhere else. Fourthly, they are full of bores. And the food is no screaming hell.

Then, the culture bit. It's awfully difficult to gear yourself up for a week of Shakespeare and Shaw and dressing up and standing in lineups for dinner, when you're lying in the backyard listening to the birds, with a good book, and barely enough energy to reach for your glass, and you know there ain't going to be no lineup for the fried chicken and the young, new potatoes and the juice-spurting corn and the cold, tangy tomatoes in your own house.

Gypsy-ing around in the car is fine, except that you have to get out on the road with all those maniacs, and drive and drive in the heat, and pay a ransom for motel rooms, and eat fried food until you begin to feel like a french-fry, and watch a TV set offering re-runs of last winter's re-runs. The biggest adventure here is wondering whether the toilet will back up.

A couple of weeks at a cottage is appealing. But what the heck, we slouch around at home in bare feet and shorts, and as far as listening to the loons at night goes, you can always ask a few of your friends to drop in.

A few days in the city has an equal appeal. I always catch a cold in the air-conditioned rooms, neither of us likes swimming in a pool with a lot of common, middle-class people, you have to sign a second mortgage on your house to pay the bill, and you can hardly wait to get home, where the room service is free and a great deal faster.

So this week, with our "little trip" looming up like a vampire, we both discovered, instantaneously and with great relief, that we'd just stay home for the time being.

She: "I was really just agreeing because I thought you wanted to get away somewhere."

He: "You mean to say that you don't want to go off in the heat and be soaked every time you turn around and eat all those rotten french-fries and besides the tires on the car aren't so hot. I was only going because I thought you'd like a change, get away from the meals."

She: "I can't stand other people's cooking and I hate motel rooms and you know how hard it is to find a decent place to swim."

He: "Yeah, and if we took our golf clubs we wouldn't have room for anything else and if we didn't, we'd have to rent them, for an arm and a leg."

Ironically, we live smack in the centre of one of the great resort areas in Canada.

People who move here from the city can't understand why anybody wants to go away, even for a day.

Anyway, great, mutual sighs of relief. But there was still that guilty feeling, that sense that we weren't pulling our weight in the great holiday farce. So we compromised.

He: "Tell you what we'll do. We'll drive down to the marina and look at the boats. Then we'll check the prices at two of the local motels. Then we'll drive out to the beach and look at the cottages."

She (eagerly): "Yes. And then we'll come home and turn on the sprinkler and I'll get you a dinner that would cost you $14 in a restaurant and tomorrow morning we'll play golf at the most beautiful course within 300 miles, and tomorrow afternoon we'll sun and swim at the most beautiful beach within 400 miles."

He: "Yes! Yes! Yes! And there's a terrific movie on TV tonight, four stars, and we've only seen it twice."

Who needs a "little trip" anyway?

Shopping and other amenities will be located within close proximity to the building. The development will also contain a common room, patios, landscaped conversation areas and surface parking for 13 cars.

Annual operating subsidies, estimated at $62,832 will be shared equally by CMHC and OHC.

Provided under the National Housing Act the loan is for a term of 50 years.

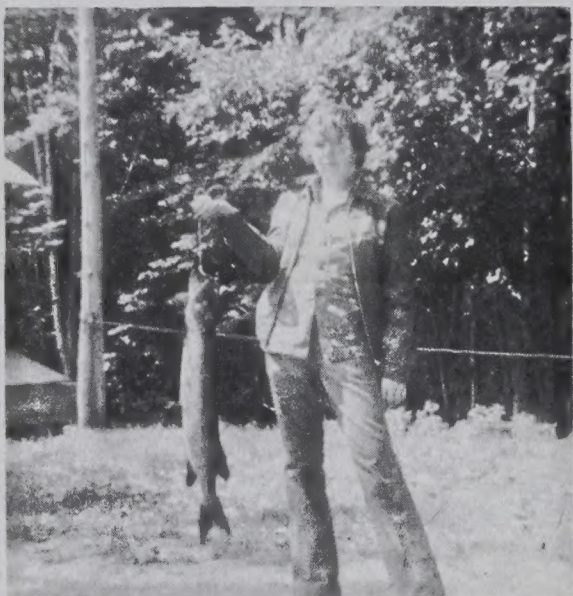

Teachers hold annual meeting in Toronto

Delegates, representing 15,000 public school male teachers have been attending the Annual Meeting at the Skyline Hotel in Toronto. Some 300 delegates from seventy districts across the Province are debating more than 100 resolutions relating to teachers' concerns. Resolutions include a membership fee increase, a policy to regulate strike activity and a special fund for negotiation purposes. The Annual Meeting began on Tuesday, August 12th and concludes on Friday, August 15th.

Those attending the meeting from the local districts were Ron King, Bruce Lewis, Dennis Baker, and W.J. Flynn.

Freeze or can Ontario peaches now for tasty winter treats

Ontario freestone peaches provide an excellent source of Vitamin A, and with the price of sugar down to only half the panic level of last year, families can prepare inexpensive and tasty desserts for use long after the peach harvesting season.

Varieties such as Redhaven, Envoy, Velvet and Loring are highly suited for freezing, and the following instructions will help simplify gaining excellent results. Where the frozen peaches are intended for use as pie fillings, for simplicity packages containing sufficient filling for a single pie should be used.

Always select ready-to-eat peaches that have reached the peak of maturity and flavor. This may mean resorting to the peaches daily to make certain only perfectly ripe fruit is preserved.

DRY SUGAR PACK METHOD:

6 cups sliced peaches, 1 cup of the sugar and ascorbic acid mixture.

-Mix sugar and ascorbic acid together (following directions on ascorbic acid package).

-Peel the blanched peach, slice into a bowl, sprinkle with the sugar-ascorbic acid mixture.

-Continue peach by peach until peaches and sugar mixture have been well combined.

-Allow these to stand until sugar has dissolved and starts to draw juice from the fruit.

-Pack in rigid moisture-vapor-proof containers, leaving ½ inch head space.

-Place piece of crumpled wax paper on top of peaches, to keep fruit well covered with juice.

-Seal, label, quick-freeze.

-Store at 0 degrees F, or lower.

HOME CANNING OF ONTARIO PEACHES:

Recommended varieties of Ontario peaches for canning include Redhaven, Envoy, Velvet, Lorine and Redskin.

-Purchase when your favorite variety is at peak of harvest, when flavor and quality are at their best.

-Choose bright, fresh quality peaches, free from bruises and discoloration.

-Sort for ripeness; allowing too firm peaches to ripen at room temperature.

-Make syrup for fruits according to type of syrup desired (very thin to heavy); prepare approximately 1 ½ to 2 cups syrup for each quart jar used.

-Place peaches - a few at a time - in a wire basket or in a large square of cheese cloth; plunge into boiling water for ½ to 1 minute; dip immediately into cold water; remove skins.

-Cut in halves and remove pits. To keep from discoloring immerse immediately in brine made of 1 tps salt to 1 qt water. Drain thoroughly before placing in jars for processing.

-Pack fruit in jars. Using a jar funnel fill the jar with the prepared hot fruit and syrup. Wipe rim of container with a clean towel to remove any food particles.

-Place lids in saucepan of boiling water. Remove one lid from boiling water; cover the jar.

Ontario peaches now in season

Peach Queen, Lorna Culp of Vineland

Freestone peaches from the orchards of the Niagara Peninsula and southwestern Ontario are now reaching Ontario food stores and markets in steady quantities, and the chairman of the Ontario Fresh Fruit Growers' Marketing Board states the quality of the 1975 crop is "exceptional".

Ted Tregunno, whose family orchards front onto the Niagara River near Queenston, explains that growing conditions this year have been close to ideal. Warm and sunny summer days experienced across southern Ontario have provided ample heat units to bring the fruit into full ripened maturity and there has been sufficient rain to bring the peaches up to full size.

"We are picking some varieties of peaches a little earlier this year, but only by a few days", said Mr. Tregunno. "The prolonged hot spell in July started us thinking we would be a couple of weeks ahead of schedule, but nature usually has a way of maintaining a balance."

The 1975 crop is expected to be 10 per cent heavier than the substantial harvest recorded last year. The close to 10,000 acres of peach orchards in the Province are expected to produce 81 million pounds of freestone and clingstone peaches.

Peaches in greatest demand by Canadian consumers are the redskinned freestone varieties. Ontario grown peaches are recognized as being much juicier than the imported peaches and they also provide more flavor and are easier to peel. Because of their softer texture they must be carefully hand-harvested, and a workforce of 5,000 pickers is currently busily employed gathering this valuable tender fruit crop.

Most of the marketing is handled through the Board which acts as a centralized sales office, assembles peaches for shipment, and arranges refrigerated transport trucks to deliver the peaches to selected markets. Use of refrigerated trucks is important to assure that the Ontario peaches reach markets in prime condition and ready for immediate consumption or for home preserving.

With 2,500 separate growers operating peach orchards in Ontario, the assembly and distribution system refined by the marketing board is a model of efficiency. Salesmen at Vineland and Leamington are in daily contact with buyers in all the major marketing areas located in Ontario and Quebec.

Break and enter at the Minden Progress

On August 17th, 1975 at 2 a.m. Provincial Constables K.M. Legge and M.W. Hickey of the Minden Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police observed a parked vehicle in the area and further checking revealed that the owner of the vehicle was inside the Minden Progress office. Entry was gained by forcing a window.

A 23 year old Haliburton man has been charged with break and enter with intent to commit theft.

Still plenty of fish in Pigeon Lake

Recently our Kawartha Unit completed a six week live trapping study on Pigeon Lake. This is to advise that the fish are alive and well in spite of rumours to the contrary although they do seem reluctant to take the bait from many of the anglers.

Taken in the traps were 3600 yellow pickerel ranging in size from 8 inches to about 27 1/2 inches; 795 Smallmouth Bass from 9 1/2 inches to 20 inches; 75 Largemouth Bass from 9 1/2 inches to 20 1/2 inches and 105 musky from 15 1/2 inches to 42 1/2 inches.

These fish were all returned to the water, most with fin clips, but nearly 1100 sported numbered tags fastened just below the dorsal fin. Anyone catching one of these tagged fish is asked to inform the Lindsay District Office giving the tag number, date and location of the catch. It is not necessary to submit the tag. If the number is recorded on a slip of paper the tag may be kept as a souvenir. In return for this assistance, we will advise you where the fish was tagged and pertinent data relative to the fish itself at the time of tagging.

Haliburton Highlights

Due to circumstances beyond their control Haliburton Taxi service announced last week that it is ceasing operations.

Just recently the Driftwood Restaurant at Haliburton put on a new canopy around the restaurant but days later one of the corners was damaged when a truck carrying a bulldozer ran into it.

The Municipality of Dysart et al intends removal of the Steel Truss Bridge over the Drag River at Haliburton and the installation of a metal culvert beginning immediately after Labour Day Weekend. This will result in a very low water situation to those people who presently pump from the river.

Plans will soon be underway for the Annual Haliburton Rotary Club Festacolor which is scheduled for Haliburton near the end of September. More on this at a later date.

In speaking with George Hardy he tells us that hundreds of people have visited the Museum at Haliburton this summer.

There is no doubt about it, there is still a lot of money around. All three carnivals, the Legion, Minden Rotary and Haliburton Rotary were all great financial successes.

Eakins hits the campaign trail

John Eakins opened his Committee Rooms on the day that the election was called. The poll committees have been under way for some time now, and they are moving ahead now that the election has been called. During the past week, Mr.

Eakins has been on the campaign trail going door to door in the Village of Little Britain, Mariposa Township, and the Village of Fenelon Falls. While meeting people in his door to door campaign, Mr. Eakins has been stressing the high cost of government. This year the government has a projected deficit of $1.7 billion. "I feel that the Davis government has not been responsible in its handling of the taxpayers' dollars. When we look at large deficits, when we see the amount of wastage by the government, when we see a poor return for tax dollars, I feel that we must come to the conclusion that the Davis government is too expensive for us. Basically, we cannot afford another Davis government for another four years. It is necessary for us to return to a responsible handling of the tax dollars in the province of Ontario. This a Liberal Government pledges to do." Mr. Eakins stated.

During this week, Mr. Eakins plans to continue his door to door campaign into the Bobcaygeon area and into the northern areas of the riding. A number of coffee parties are being planned as well in order that Mr. Eakins can meet as many people as possible.

NDP candidate hopes to reach people in his riding

The call for a provincial election on September 18 by the Tory Government is a deliberate move to evade issues for as long as possible. Many voters will be on holiday until Labour Day and the real election campaign will not reach them until their return. By this tactic the Davis Government will not have to reach the populaceto too early in the campaign to be accountable for their poor past performance and the lack of decisive ance and the lack of decision making and decisive leadership.

I hope to be able to reach all the people of Victoria-Haliburton in the pre-election weeks and to bring the issues forward. This will enable the voters in this riding to have all the information necessary to make their decision on election day. I know that, armed with the facts, that decision will be to replace the Tory reign with a New Democratic Government.

Tax Rebate on new cars extended

ARTHUR Meen, Minister of Revenue, announced today that a regulation is now in effect to extend the Retail Sales Tax Rebate on new cars to include most foreign car imports. In addition, the regulation clarifies the inclusion of new car demonstrators.

This regulation is effective for all purchases made on or after July 7, 1975 and on or before December 31, 1975.

Full details are contained in a bulletin being issued by the Ministry of Revenue to all new car dealers in Ontario.

Where's the fire?

If there's a fire in your town, you'd want a full report on it, wouldn't you? And, when it comes to reporting fires and other local happenings, most people turn to their local newspaper for the news.

Your local newspaper's prime function is to present the news—with strong emphasis on local news.

That's why eight out of ten adults read a newspaper every day. No other news source can match local newspapers for speedy, thorough saturation of a community.

Local newspapers deliver massive coverage to people of all ages. 80% of all men and women read a newspaper every week. And the figures are almost as high for teen-agers—7 out of 10 (ages 12-20) read a newspaper every week.

Where's the fire? Who's the proud new parents? Who got married? All of these, and more, are reported in your local newspaper every week. And who wants to know? You do—with a full report.

Newspapers deliver the local story.

Whipper Watson Snowerama

The first multiple snowmobile rally in Ontario raised nearly $130,000 through the Whipper Watson Snowerama held earlier this year.

Snowerama was sponsored by the Ontario Society for Crippled Children in association with snowmobile clubs, individual snowmobilers, the Ontario Snowmobile Distributors Association and participating Easter Seal service clubs.

Thirteen 100-mile courses were laid out by experienced snowmobilers in twelve communities in Bradford, Cornwall, Eganville, Haliburton, Kemptville, Mildmay, Minden, Port Carling, Prescott, Smiths Falls, Thunder Bay and Timmins.

In addition to raising funds to develop local and provincial rehabilitation services to physically handicapped children, Snowerama was designed to show that, in careful hands, snowmobiles provide safe, enjoyable winter recreation without causing damage to the environment.

Safety was the key word and, according to Ian Bain, Executive Director of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, the hundreds of snowmobilers who took part were a credit to this rapidly growing sport.

"In terms of accident-free miles completed," said Mr. Bain, "Snowerama was an outstanding tribute to the educational work done by the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs and to the sense of responsibility of individual snowmobilers."

Proceeds were divided equally among local Easter Seal service clubs and the Society and plans are now being made for Snowerama 1976.

Disbursements to participating Easter Seal Service Clubs to date:

Cornwall - Cornwall Kiwanis $4025.55.

Eganville - Eganville Rotary $2045.74.

Theatre Foundation receives $20,000

Joseph C. Holtom, President of the Academy Theatre Foundation announces the receipt of a grant of $20,000 for the Academy Theatre this year from the Province of Ontario. This is in addition to the $15,000 received last year for the installation of air conditioning. "This money will be used for the new roof and other capital improvements" said Mr. Holtom.

In presenting the $20,000 grant for the Academy Theatre Foundation, Mr. Glen Hodgson M.P.P. remarked that the Province of Ontario through the Ministry of Recreation and Culture was attempting to recognize and help cultural community centres such as the Academy Theatre in Lindsay.

It only seems a short time (8 to 10 years) when the Academy was renovated and repaired by the generosity of the people of Lindsay and district, but ten years has now gone by and considerable maintenance is continually necessary. All the years of work and planning have come to fruition, and the theatre is providing a real service to the citizens of Lindsay and at the same time is the number one tourist attraction. The present 1975 summer season is the best yet, in terms of attendance and revenue. "We hear a lot about Stratford", said Mr. Holtom, "but relative to our size we have just a tremendous thing going for us here - thanks to the great spirit of the people of Lindsay and the assistance of the Government of Ontario."

Report from Parliament

by William C. Scott,
M.P.

The Special House Committee on Immigration, appointed several months ago and of which I am a member, is meeting through the Summer recess in an effort to complete a report to submit to the House when it re-convenes on October 14th.

During the months that I have served on the committee I have become convinced that our report should give major consideration to the question of just how many people Canada's agricultural industry can feed, today and into the distant future.

It is significant that the motto of the Agricultural Institute of Canada is Cibus and Omnes - FOOD FOR ALL, but, according to one of Canada's leading agricultural scientists, there will only be food for all if we take steps immediately to control our population growth.

Dr. C. F. Bentley, Dean of Agriculture at the University of Alberta and a recognized authority on agricultural production, said in March of this year that immigration into Canada should be "brought to a practical stop", and as soon as possible.

According to Dr. Bentley, while a few years ago Canada was exporting a large percentage of its agricultural production, in one recent year we were actually a net importer of food.

He said that given our present rate of increase in population due to births alone, with zero immigration, in just a few years Canadians will need more food than we presently produce. He said that because of the fact that the Canadian government is a poor supporter of agricultural research, increases in crop yields and livestock productivity have averaged only 50 per cent over the past thirty years.

This low rate of increase in agricultural productivity cannot be allowed to continue if we are to maintain the quality of life of our people. And, as Dr. Bentley points out, increased agricultural production would be meaningless unless we also place some restrictions on population growth.

Dr. Bentley said that Ontario's rate of increase in agricultural production is considerably higher than for the other provinces, and he said that Ontario's corn yield is equal to the best in the U.S. and that the two soy bean cultivars that contribute the most to the yield of that crop in the U.S. were developed in Ontario.

However, we cannot rest on our laurels. We must strive to make even greater strides in food production techniques and yields, and we must make our knowledge and capabilities available to other regions in Canada.

On a national basis, we must increase financial support to the science of agriculture, and we must utilize all knowledge available to us. Food production in Canada today is one of our most vital concerns, and if we do not recognize this fact and act accordingly, future generations of Canadians will be importing food in order to survive.

We have the knowledge and capability to regularize production and marketing of agricultural products, so that we can eliminate the boom or bust cycles that have been so common to the industry in past years. This would ensure a regular flow of food across the country, and would also stabilize prices of agricultural produce.

And, we have the capability to provide better weather forecasting for farmers, and to control or modify weather. Weather modification is being perfected as a military weapon, and this technique could be adapted to agriculture to provide rain when needed, and to minimize the effects of severe weather. We can and should take steps immediately to ensure that there will indeed be food for all in the years to come.

As the sun lifts himself over the tree line

The calm, deep blue lake glistens as a sheet of glass;
Hemmed in by the scanty splendour of spruce, balsam and pine.

Hiding a new-born fawn amidst its tall shoreline grass.

A large cliff of red granite with unmelted ice -

Covered with a white curtain draped over its edge;

With a tranquil marsh-one end like a paddy of rice,

Observed intently by a robin from a nearby ledge.

The morning breeze gently rustles the leaves

Of the stately oak, maple, birch and elm trees;

Bending together their many different tints of green

In the morning sunlights brilliant sheen.

A large blue heron searches for a sunfish steak

As the loon floats by leisurely offering the odd shrill

To the flock of geese landing on his lake;

While the evening forest echoes the whippoorwill.

Amid the autumn splendour of yellow, green, red and gold

A male partridge in full plumage drums at Midday;

With the chilly breeze becoming a little more bold

Rustling through the sun-baked golden beaver hay.

As the hazy evening twilight settles down

Upon a huge bull moose knee-deep in lily swill,

A great brown-and-white speckled owl hoots

At the slit of a moon creeping over the hill.

As the chilling wind whistles past the naked trees

To join hands with the lakes producing ice,

The silent, fluffy white snow falls gracefully free

Upon the footprints of rabbit, fox, wolf, otter, and mice.

Then one's heart should swell with gratitude

To the Maker of these unmarred natural things

And find himself richer by far than many a king

In the freshness of the Highlands altitude.

On which we stand

Geology, the science relating to the study of the Earth and the processes which have formed it, is a subject unfamiliar to the average layman. Geological terms such as "plutonic rocks", "paleozoic eras" and "metamorphosed crusts" are difficult to pronounce much less understand. Unless we are either a geologist, or a technician in the mining industry, most of us know very little about the "terra firma" on which we stand.

Nevertheless, mining and geology have such an impact on our lives that most of us, especially planners and legislators, should acquire a reasonably good working knowledge of the subject. As a case in point, a school board in one earthquake-prone American state considered spending an additional 10% in constructing a school to make it earthquake-proof. They decided not to do so in the absurd belief that earthquakes occurred principally on weekends!

Most of us know that the Pre-Cambrian Shield of Ontario is a massive horse-shoe shaped rock formation surrounding Hudson's Bay and James Bay. The remainder of Ontario comprising a thin belt between the shield and the waters of Hudson's and James Bays, plus all of Ontario roughly south of the Trent/Severn and Rideau Canals contains younger deposits of sedimentary rocks. Most of us have noticed the abrupt change from arable farmland to rocky outcroppings at or near the latter locations.

The Pre-Cambrian Shield of Ontario is subdivided into three parts called, oddly, "Provinces". All are different due to age and degree of structural change. The "Superior Province" surrounding Lake Superior is the largest and oldest of the three. It consists mostly of rocks formed 2,600 million years ago. In the beginning this area consisted of large volcanoes which formed islands in an ancient ocean, somewhat resembling the myriad of islands in the South Pacific Ocean. Underwater between these islands, thick layers of volcanic rubble or sedimentary rock formed. At a later stage a vast crevice opened up, thrusting this rock and rubble into a molten furnace deep in the Earth's interior. Here it underwent drastic change brought about by extremes of temperature and pressure. It was within this volcanic and sedimentary rock that famous mines such as Virginiatown, Kirkland Lake, Timmins, and Red Lake have been discovered.

The "Southern Province" of the Pre-Cambrian Shield, a thin belt running from Sault Ste. Marie to Cobalt, was formed 250 million years later of largely sedimentary rock. About the same time another part of the "Southern Province" began forming fifty miles east and west of Thunder Bay and northward encircling Lake Nipigon. The "Southern Province" has produced the largest share of Ontario's mineral wealth from the mining camps of Cobalt, Sudbury and Elliott Lake.

The "Grenville Province" in Ontario is bounded by Georgian Bay on the west, the Ottawa River on the east, the Rideau and Trent/Severn Canals on the south and the northern boundaries of Parry Sound and Nipissing districts on the north. The northern part of the "Grenville Province" consists of sandstones deposited at the edge of an old continent, whereas volcanic rocks and limestone predominate in the south. At one time in the past 300 million years, Ontario is thought to have been within 20 degrees of the equator, resulting in tropical coral reef deposits evident in the rocks of the Niagara Escarpment and the Formosa Reef of Bruce County. Erosion of this relatively soft rock has resulted in the formation of famous landforms such as Niagara Falls, Niagara Gorge, and the Niagara Escarpment.

In 1974, Ontario led all Canadian provinces in the mining of both metals, and structural materials, (i.e. cement, sand, gravel, and stone) with a market value of 2½ billion dollars. This alone represents an annual income of over $300.00 for each man, woman, and child in Ontario!

The land on which we stand, therefore, is truly worth a fortune to each of us.

New film

Women in the Environment

A new film entitled "Women in the Environment" produced for the Ministry of the Environment will be shown every night at the C.N.E. starting August 15, at 9:00 p.m., 9:30 and 10:00 p.m. in the Queen Elizabeth Building Theatre, Environment Minister William G. Newman announced today.

"When 1975 was designated International Women's Year, the Ministry of the Environment decided upon a project which would commemorate Women's Year and, serve as a continuing tribute to the hundreds of women working in the environmental field," said Mr. Newman. "Hence the 26-minute film - Women in the Environment.

"The film is not a catalogue of women's jobs nor a commentary on social attitudes. We feel it is an extremely interesting documentary extending through the spectrum of environmental work. Guidance counsel-

Several ladies from Palmerston, Listowel, Gravenhurst and Labrador enjoyed a lawn tea and an exhibition of wall hangings at the home of Mrs. C.A. Stewart near Allsaw last week.

Sincere sympathy to the family and friends of the late Mrs Malcolm Kent whose funeral was early this week.

An Executive Meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the Library last Tuesday afternoon to plan the Fall Bus Trip and more details will be given nearer the time of this trip.

Jeff and Eden Moore left on Monday for their home at Clementsport N.S. after spending the summer with their grandparents Irene and Bill Moore.

Lampoon Puppet Show at our Arena Friday had a large crowd of youngsters and their parents present to enjoy an interesting show.

Next weekend should prove an interesting one at Mindens County Fair. Exhibits are to be in place on Friday for judging; then Saturday sees the Parade at 1 to the Fair Grounds. Here will be something for everyone -- the Midway, Horse Show, Grandstand featuring George Hamilton third, Amateur Contest and also this year "Queen of the Fair". Then a visit to the Fair Building with its displays of homecrafts, photography, vegetables, baking, preserves, fruit and vegetables and a look at the livestock. Saturday night will be a dance with George Hamilton at the Arena. At one time this Fair was a place to sell or trade goods or animals but now it seems to be just display, though we understand you may be able to buy that beautiful chocolate cake. Altogether, this should be something to see so be sure and "Come to the Fair."

Your last chance this next Monday to see Live Theatre with Guelph Drama Club presenting The Fastastics at the High School, curtain time is 8 p.m.

The community sends good wishes to these people in hospital, Maude Campbell, and Rita Scarlett at the local one, and Larry Reynolds and Russell Harrison at Civic Hospital Peterborough. Pleased to report that Jack Prentice and Bertha Hughes are home after some time at Ross Memorial Hospital.

Another lucky lady at Rotary Bingo when Ann Dawson won the second Snowball in 21 numbers amount won was $155 on August 7. Congratulations to her.

NDP campaign now in full swing here

The New Democratic Party campaign headquarters, located at 22 Kent Street West in Lindsay, is now in full swing for the September 18 election. Fred McLaughlin, NDP candidate for Victoria-Haliburton, will make time in his busy campaign schedule to be at the headquarters to meet with the people and answer questions. He invites everyone to drop in or to phone 324-1930, 1931. Mr. McLaughlin knows it is important that the electorate have every opportunity to talk with the candidates. He has stated that, if elected, he will act as a communication link between the voice of the people and the machinery of government. Mr. McLaughlin believes that the failure of the Conservatives to nominate a candidate as yet is a deliberate avoidance of the people and the issues. However this move does not surprise him because it has been the Tory policy for the last four years.

Mr. McLaughlin and his family attended the Fenelon Falls Fair on Saturday where he had an opportunity to meet many people and to relax after a busy week on the campaign trail. On Sunday he wound up his hectic week by attending the official kick-off of the Ontario New Democratic Party campaign. Mr. McLaughlin had the opportunity to discuss, with his fellow candidates from the more northern ridings, the implementation of a plan of decentralization by which constituencies such as Victoria-Haliburton would develop secondary industries to provide employment for the local populace. This would supplement the dependence on the tourist trade which is seasonal. Also discussed was housing, one of the basic issues facing Ontario voters.

Mr. McLaughlin will continue his campaigning this week in Lindsay on Monday and Tuesday and the Haliburton area on Wednesday and Thursday.

Trent-Severn waterway

During the week ended August 14, 1975, evaporative losses totalled 15,000 acre-feet on the whole System above Peterborough, while about 7,500 acre-feet flowed out to satisfy minimum downstream requirements. The available storage was thus reduced to about 58% of maximum.

Reservoir outflows are being somewhat reduced currently because Canal levels are satisfactory, but without significant rain (about 2" over the whole basin) there will be only a slight change in the rate of steady drawdown of the Northern Reservoirs.

The Kawartha Lakes levels are generally near the maximum of their navigation ranges.

Gems of Truth

JESUS UNDERSTANDS US

In every age of human history, the wisest men and women have been deceived by people whom they have trusted. Spies and saboteurs illustrate the natural ability of man to deceive and cheat his fellowman and the ability to do so is an amazing gift from the great deceiver, Satan.

But not so the Lord God. He knows the very thoughts of the secret imagination. He also understands the intentions and purposes of humanity before they are formed in our hearts. No degree of skill can cover us from the discerning eye and mind of God. How shocking to a true child of God is the evil and ungodliness that comes into his own little circle and then to know that God sees all around the world. What a mass of sin He must see and then to put John 3:16 into action on their behalf.

Was the Lord deceived, and thought that the human race was better than it is and therefore worth saving? No, indeed not, for Scripture is plain about this when it says, "He needed not that any should testify of man, for He knew what was in man", John 2:25. That is more than any human could claim! We make an attempt to judge our fellowman by their conduct, attempting to understand their motives and intentions of their actions. But God works the other way around.

He judges their actions and considers their conduct in the light of their intentions and motives. Surely, to be able to do so calls for Omniscience, only an all knowing Creator can be able to read thoughts before action takes place. Therefore, since Jesus knew the secrets of the soul, He must be All knowing too and hence equal with Jehovah God and one with Him. This is what Jesus claimed to be and demonstrated over and over again as He sojourned on earth.

Would that same Jesus have died for sinful humanity if He really knew the depth of mental depravity? Did the Lord Jesus not know that the great majority of those for whom He died would reject Him, scorn His offer of grace and mercy and scoff at the offer of salvation He would make available? The knowledge that this would happen and His complete insight into human ways of evil, was the very thing that made Jesus go by the way of the Cross for mankind.

He alone knew the cause of sin, hence He alone could effect the cure. Any good doctor is more interested in helping the sick who are really suffering than he is in pampering some imaginary invalid. Jesus came as the great Physician. No small wonder that He said, "I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance", Mark 2:17, Luke 5:30-32. Jesus knew the fatal nature of sin and He knew that He alone had the cure, thus love for sinners compelled Him to come and minister to them.

Jesus also knew that there would be some who would accept His offer of a cure and be saved by His acting on their behalf. Perhaps we are not aware that Christ is not responsible for salvation, He is only responsible for making it available. The matter of accepting it and thus making it effective and operative rests with the one who hears the Gospel.

The Lord Jesus, who knew what was in the hearts of all men everywhere, died for those who would accept Him. Those who do so, He calls the "elect" and His Church is composed of them. How wonderful to know a Saviour who knows us through and through and loves us in spite of our weakness to serve Him wholly.

Wind generators for local power supply

The Ontario Research Foundation has begun work on a $30,000 feasibility study of wind generators for local power supply in Ontario. Sponsored jointly by Ontario Hydro and the Ministry of Energy, this evaluation will focus on the use of wind power for communications and other applications in northern locations.

According to ORF energy spokesman Dr. Kirk Brown, the study will strengthen ORF's ability to provide energy-related services to industry and government agencies.

ORF will employ internationally recognized wind energy experts from the Electrical Research Association (ERA) in the United Kingdom. The majority of the project's research and analysis will be carried out at ORF's Sheridan Park facility.

"The cooperative nature of this project is essential to allow for transfer of applicable technology which will enhance Canada's capabilities in the exploitation of wind power", said Dr. Brown.

The supply of power to remote communities in Northern Ontario has involved difficulties in availability of equipment, transportation and high capital costs. As future energy requirements increase along with rapidly rising costs in fossil fuels, alternate sources of energy such as wind power are being explored.

ORF has a number of other energy related projects underway. These include a computerized study of heat loss in school buildings, and, with the assistance of a consulting engineering firm, a comprehensive analysis to optimize the energy recovered from municipal garbage through selective recycling and incineration.

A typical view of the many thousands who packed out Woodbine Race Track in Toronto, one of 100 locations of the "Divine Sovereignty" District Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses in Canada and the United States this summer. A peak attendance of 17,214 filled Woodbine for Sunday's lecture. L.K. Greenlees of New

Hall's Lake news

A pleasant afternoon was spent at Glenroy Lodge when Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brittain were hosts to the Toronto Salvation Army Band who played to an audience of Senior Citizens and other guests. It was a pleasant day and the event was held on the spacious lawns. Many of the Seniors from Hyland Crest were transported by volunteer drivers. The Salvation Army Bandsmen played a fine selection of lovely old hymns, much beloved and enjoyed by all. The Brittain's served tasty refreshments and everyone reported having had a wonderful afternoon at Glenroy. This was on Saturday, the 16th.

Mrs. Marjorie Watson attended the Old Boys' Reunion in Clinton recently and met many of her old school friends and previous residents of Clinton. She was pleased that she had made the effort to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie J. Thompson and sons with their friends are staying at Thistlebrae Cottage for a week or so. They are from Burlington.

The sympathy of the community goes out to Mrs. George Pettes and family upon the passing of her father, Mr. Gordon A. Winterfield, who resided with the Pettes family at Oakview Lodge on Hawk Lake. The service is being held this (Monday) morning.

Private showing of winter art

ESSONVILLE - (Special to The Echo) - A private showing of Haliburton winter art was unveiled Sunday at Esson Lake. It had been scheduled for a week earlier, but was delayed because of the heat wave.

The main portion of the display was a collection of black and white photographs by Ted Morris taken along the Essonville Line following an ice storm last March. Also represented as Ms. Mary Kozar of New York. Ms. Kozar, currently involved in ancient Chinese brush work on a silk medium, did a primitive macrame utilizing local driftwood, beach stones, and weeds.

Youth work in the showing was represented by watercolors executed by Robert and Richard Morris, teen aged sons of the photographer.

The photographs ranged from stark to cluttered, but all bore the unmistakable mark of Haliburton. They were taken along the stretch of the Line known locally as "Vinegar Hill" and on the tourist maps as "Otter Lake Hill", starting at the farm of Joe Rowbotham and ending at the Esson Lake Dam.

The most stark picture of the collection was a strand of barbed wire, coated with ice, running almost parallel to the horizon. The most complex was a jumble of abandoned farm machinery, drifted with snow and caked with ice, leaning against weathered barn board. Instead of being ordinary snapshots the pictures were winter portraits vitalized by the effective use of back lighting, a technique of placing the object of interest between the sun and the camera. The result is a silhouetted figure framed with a halo. The prime example of backlighting in

Moved by Gary McKnight seconded by L.C. Morrison that the Meeting be now adjourned until Friday, September 19th. at 7:00 P.M. and Monday, September 22nd. 1975, at 9:00 A.M. unless called prior to that time by the Reeve. Carried.

the Morris collection is a sugar bush. Each tree glistens with the ice and light halo, while the main tree (hiding the sun) is cut by the glare into an hourglass figure.

The photographs will be displayed next week in Wilberforce at the Smith Pine Furniture store. None of the pictures is for sale.

Special guests at the showing were Joe Rowbotham and Georgina Lee of Essonville, Professor and Mrs. Erwin Johnson of Buffalo, Mr and Mrs Jack Weler of Oshawa, Mr and Mrs Rex Jackson of Toronto, Mr and Mrs D. Smith of Wilberforce, Mr and Mrs George Carlen of Essonville, Mr and Mrs Ross Warriner of Burlington, Mr and Mrs Bob Aston, Mr and Mrs Glen Doncaster and Mr and Mrs Len Duffield all of Toronto, and John McLeod, recently returned from Labrador.

Library news from Gooderham

On Friday, August 8th, at 4 p.m. Patchwork Puppets presented Punch and Judy at the Glamorgan Public Library to an audience of approximately fifty children and several adults. The show was a great success to judge by the response of the audience and the comments received later. Mr. Roy Small who does the whole show himself is extremely talented and the children couldn't take their eyes off Punch and Judy, the policeman, judge and all the other puppet characters. Mr. Small has the children join in at the beginning of the show which they enjoy thoroughly.

It takes about eight minutes to assemble the set and the show lasts 40 minutes.

Program developed to determine academic weakness

PETERBOROUGH -- An experimental program to identify areas of academic weaknesses in first-year university students and to assist students in overcoming these difficulties is being developed by researchers at Trent University in Peterborough.

The program, funded by an $18,000 grant from the Ontario Universities Program for Instructional Development, will be conducted by J.I. Lodge, associate dean of science, and H.G. Morrison, a teaching assistant in Trent's physics department.

Professor Lodge noted that much has been said about the preparedness of secondary school graduates for university level work.

"We do not believe that today's graduates are ill-prepared for all aspects of university work," he said. "There is little doubt, however, that they are not as uniformly prepared as when a province-wide examination system was in effect. Students now are stronger in some academic areas but we notice individual weaknesses in other areas which can hinder their overall university performance."

"These problems are so diverse," he said, "that they must be dealt with on an individual basis."

To achieve this without a large expenditure of time and money, Professor Lodge and Ms. Morrison plan to develop a self-help program in which students will be directed to materials and resource persons who can assist them in correcting individual problems.

Ms. Morrison has had considerable experience in self-instruction programs, most recently at the University of Zambia where she was involved in organizing and writing material for an individualized first-year physics course.

A variety of academic departments at Trent will cooperate in the program to evaluate the preparedness of their students for university work and, through testing done in the program, to evaluate the efficiency of their own methods of instruction.

The first step in the experimental program is to design diagnostic tests. Professor Lodge explained. This will be done in consultation with instructors to determine what level of skills is appropriate to their courses.

Following this, a program of assistance will be developed with the necessary material and resource persons to assist students in correcting their own weaknesses.

Professor Lodge said the small size of Trent and its emphasis on the individual student makes it ideal for developing the program. "In the initial stages," he said, "we will likely make the program even smaller by working with only three or four academic departments."

Once it is developed, Professor Lodge feels the program will be adaptable to much larger universities and he is already seeking cooperation with other institutions toward this end.

"We are confident that this program offers at least a partial solution to students' difficulties," he said. He is also hopeful that university faculty members will be helped in improving their teaching methods through analysis and evaluation of the success of existing procedures.
